AGED HILLCREST RESIDENT PASSES

There passed away at the home of her son Lambert, in Hillcrest, last week one of the oldest and most respected citizens in the person of Mrs. Mary Ann White, aged 82. Mrs. White had been ill for about two months.

Deceased came from England to Hillcrest about thirty-one years ago. She was formerly Mary Ann Ironmonger, born at Brownhills, Staffordshire, to Mr. and Mrs. William Ironmonger on March 1st, 1858. She married George White in England. He predeceased her thirty-three years ago. Six children survive, namely, Mrs. A. N. Warriner, Mrs. C. Carlson, Alfred P. White, Mrs. Arthur Appleth, Lambert White, all of Hillcrest; and Mrs. A. Price, of Cranberry Lake. There are 23 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Funeral service was conducted at the funeral church on Monday afternoon by Rev. W. H. Irwin, and the remains were laid to rest in the Hillcrest cemetery. A. E. Ferguson, of the Crows' Nest Pass Funeral Home, was in charge of funeral arrangements.

LOCAL AUTOMOBILE SALESMAN HONORED

Oshawa, Ont., Feb. 10.—(Special). News of a signal honor which has been conferred on a well known automobile salesman for outstanding service during the past year is revealed in an announcement made by General Motors Products of Canada, naming retail salesmen who have been added to the rolls of Premier Master Salesmen, Senior Master Salesmen and Master Salesmen. These designations of merit and status are based on each man's sales record during 1940, in competition with all salesmen on the staffs of General Motors' dealerships throughout Canada.

The local man who has merited the title of Master Salesman is Danny Mills, of the Crows' Nest Pass Motors, who has received an engraved emblem and certificate.

Don. E. Lewis, of Baalim Motors, Lethbridge, formerly of Blairmore, was awarded senior master salesman honors.

FIRST AID EXAMINATIONS

First Aid classes were brought to a successful conclusion for the season on Sunday afternoon last, when labels, medallions, vouchers and certificates were awarded as follows:

Labels—G. Erickson, Ian Walker, Alex. McKay, Alrick Tiberg, Alex. Rae and Frank Wialett.
Medallions—N. Walker, C. Tyrluk, B. Wilson, R. Erikson, E. Peters and J. Yanota.

Vouchers—J. Dobek, M. Blake, D. Rees, R. Curcio, S. Comfort and J. Petrik.

Certificates—J. Herman, J. Uhrin, M. Hadwell, J. Perozak, J. Godefroid, W. Aschacher, C. Snyder, J. Galvon, W. North, J. Zimka and M. Curcio.

Examination was conducted by Dr. C. Rose, of Coleman, assisted by Ben Milnes, E. Excoffin, Jr., and Joe Morris, of Bellevue.

R.C.A.F. RECRUITING OFFICER AT BLAIRMORE FRIDAY NEXT

An officer from the R.C.A.F. Recruiting Centre, Calgary, will be in Blairmore on Friday next, February 21st, from 9 a.m. to noon, at the Legion club rooms, for the purpose of interviewing persons in the district desirous of making application for enlistment in the Royal Canadian Air Force.

The remains of the late "Grandpa" Mitchell were laid to rest at Pincher Creek on Thursday of last week. Mr. Mitchell died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Harold Vroom, near Beaver Mines.

BLAIRMORE ORGANIZES FOR WAR SAVINGS DRIVE

At a well attended meeting held in the parlor of the Cosmopolitan hotel last week end organization was effected for the carrying on of the local War Savings campaign.

C. J. Tompkins was chosen committee chairman, with Frank G. Freeman as secretary and J. J. Murray as treasurer, who with Messrs. Gordon Steeves and J. W. Gresham constitute the executive committee. The following comprise the general committee: J. W. Gresham, C. J. Tompkins, Gordon Steeves, F. M. Thompson, Roland Pinkney, Joseph Kubik, S. J. Lamey, R. G. Old, W. J. Bartlett, Sam McDowell, Rev. E. B. Arrol, J. J. Murray and F. G. Freeman, with R. E. Donkin and W. B. Drake representing Frank.

At an executive meeting on Wednesday noon, plans were tentatively made for the drive among the business people and private citizens, not covered by the coal company list, at once.

Don't be offended if you are overlooked, for it is the intention to approach every adult citizen and subscriptions large or small will be acceptable to help "Smash Hitler." If you have reason to feel that you are being overlooked, you are privileged to call upon the chairman or any member of the committee and offer your assistance.

THE F. M. THOMPSON CO'S BIG FASHION SHOW

Just what clever fingers can accomplish with cotton will be demonstrated by Mrs. M. C. Ballingall, of the Wabasso Co., in the Oliva hall on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evening of next week at 8 o'clock.

During these evenings Mrs. Ballingall will lecture on the uses to which cottons may be applied in the home. The show will include a fashion parade and a choice collection of household articles made from cotton will be on display.

The show is absolutely free, and each evening a bed set will be given away as a door prize.

After the demonstration, the hall has been donated to the L.O.D.E., who will serve tea at 10 cents per person, the proceeds in aid of the war effort.

During the week, Mrs. Ballingall will be at the F. M. Thompson Co's main store to assist ladies in any of the various uses of cotton; and on Thursday, Friday and Saturday a bed set will be given away each day at the store to one of the lucky customers.

The show is sure to be one you'd be sorry to miss. All furniture used in the demonstration has been kindly loaned by the Pass Home Furnishing Company.

C.P.R. TO CELEBRATE DIAMOND JUBILEE

On February 15th, 1881, the Marquis of Lorne, then governor-general of Canada, signed the charter of the Canadian Pacific Railway. That signature consummated the vision of great Canadian statesmen, Sir John A. Macdonald, D'Arcy McGee, Sir Georges Cartier and Sir Charles Tupper, that the new Dominion of Canada should be linked from Atlantic to Pacific by a trans-continental railway and implemented the pledge under which British Columbia entered confederation. Tomorrow is the sixtieth anniversary of the inauguration of one of the world's greatest railway systems.

A correspondent remarks that when a minister is appointed to the chaplain service he is given the honorary rank of captain, and as far as the Army is concerned drops "Reverend," and while the press sometimes refers to a chaplain as "Capt. the Rev.," it is not correct, the proper form being "Rocatory Capt. and Chaplain."

The Turning Point?

The fact that Anglo-Saxon leadership in both hemispheres is frequently reiterating the belief that the current year, 1941, will prove to be the turning point of the war, should not lull the people of this country into the fond delusion that the worst is over and that it will not be long before British forces will be able to win in a walk-over.

While, of course, there is always the possibility that some unknown and unforeseen factor may suddenly enter the picture and cause the tide of victory to flow like a great tidal wave, such a contingency should, at present at least, be regarded as a pure gamble with long odds against it. On the contrary, the safe, the sane and the only sensible view to take is an assumption that there are plenty of hard knocks yet to come; indeed, indications at this stage seem to point to the likelihood that the toughest blows which the enemy may be capable of delivering have not yet been struck.

No matter how comforting it may be to nurse the belief that the corner has been turned, it would be the part of wisdom to steel ourselves to the thought that there is a long, hard road to travel yet before the victory is won and the war is over. Not only is it the part of wisdom to accept this hypothesis as a truism, but it is the only safe view to take, and having taken that view, to shape our course accordingly.

And what does it mean to shape our course in accordance with this assumption, if it does not mean that we must redouble our efforts on all fronts, that we must multiply our sacrifices without counting the cost, that we must daily gird our loins for sustained and superhuman effort, that we must marshal to the fight all our resources, to the last man available, the last dollar in the purse, the last ounce of energy in productive effort in the factory and the field?

We Are Not Alone

There may be good ground for the opinion that 1941 will see the turning point of the war in favor of the British and the Allies, but it will not be unless every Canadian does his or her bit to help make it so.

If any consolation is needed to temper the sacrifices that are now being made and the still greater sacrifices that will inevitably have to be borne before we have seen this thing through, it should lie in the knowledge that the harder we pull on the oars the sooner will the finish line be reached.

If any further consolation is needed it may be found in the knowledge that we are not alone. Not only have we ranged on our side the enormous productive capacity of the factories, the mills and the shipyards of the good neighbor to the south, but in Europe and Africa millions of Nazi victims, at present on the sidelines, are eagerly yearning and anxiously waiting the moment when they can, with some hope of success, pitch into the fray and help rend the foe which ground them into the dust.

When that moment comes, which will be after the tide has definitely turned, one may reasonably expect a rapidly increasing tempo in the upsurge of the revolting victims of Nazi cruelty and repression. There are many evidences that help to make this prediction more than a hope when the time is ripe, help which will play its part in accelerating the end of Nazism in Europe, after the pattern of the rolling snowball.

Biding Their Time

The temper of the people in some of the conquered countries, after the first shock and depression of their plight were off is evidenced in stories which have filtered through to Canada via Great Britain.

For instance we learn that in Brussels when Germans board a tram, all the other passengers get off. The cinemas which show German news reels are empty. If a German asks a Belgian stranger for a light, it is offered, but the Belgian throws away his own cigarette.

In Holland, the German-controlled Hiversum radio has had to complain that ministers of the church select ambiguous texts for their sermons in order to point an anti-Nazi moral. Prof. C. V. De Vries, of Rotterdam, has been sentenced to 18 months imprisonment and fined for introducing some remarks about the Dutch Royal House in a speech with the words: "As I myself heard over the radio and as you will have heard..."

Germans are complaining that people in these two countries and in France are listening to British broadcasts, but the Germans apparently are quite unable to stop it.

Then, too, there are the peoples of ravaged Czechoslovakia and Poland. They are not going to forget the massacres, the tortures and the indignities they have sustained. Those who have escaped are performing valiant deeds with the British forces. Those who were not so fortunate are biding their time.

No, we are not alone. But until that turning time comes, let our backs bend, let our muscles ripple.

Markings Changed

Markings of Royal Air Force fighter planes, previously almost the same as those of the enemy, have been changed. The black coloring on the undersurface of the port wing has been restored. The undersurface of the starboard wing remains duck-egg blue and red, while blue roundels have been retained.

Peas Once Were Treasure

Nowadays a pea is just something that won't stay on a fork, but in the glided days of French 17th century society peas cost $40 a pint, delegates to a canning conference at Michigan State College were told.

Berlin says that "at the opportune moment" it will tell the reason why there was no invasion of England last fall. It can tell to Germany. We know the reason now—the R.A.F.

Need Radio Men

Wireless Operators And Mechanics Required In Canada And Britain. To fill an urgent need for radio mechanics and engineers for British and Canadian air forces lists of the national registration conducted last August across Canada are being combed for qualified men.

At an air ministry press conference, Hon. C. G. Power, said "radio operators are the crying need in Britain and also here." Since before Christmas the air ministry has been recruiting radio operators, with the aid of a big publicity campaign. All enlistments were assured quick transfer to Britain, if qualified.

About 700 radio men have been taken on, including 100 officers, but the need is for several times that number. The exact number required has not been disclosed, nor have details been given of the nature of the work involved. A report that wireless men were needed as service staff for the new R.A.F. defence against night bombers has not been confirmed.

Officials have been quietly combing the national registration records for men with radio training, and this has been the first notable adaptation of the lists of skilled categories to an important war purpose. The lists have been used to locate men with training required for special jobs from time to time ever since the registration was completed. But only now has the voluminous record of 8,000,000 citizens been sufficiently sorted to permit wide scale use. The call-up of radio mechanics is purely voluntary, and the registration records are being used only to locate qualified men who are being invited to enlist in the R.C.A.F.

Rocky Mountain Sheep

Four Specimens From Rockies To Be Shipped South

Four Rocky Mountain sheep from Banff National Park in the Canadian Rockies will soon be shipped to more southern climes, reports the Department of Mines and Resources. One of the sheep will be sent to the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Texas, where it will be used for genetic experiments. The other three will go to New Mexico where they will be used for re-stocking purposes in high mountain areas in the northern part of the state, formerly inhabited by this species. This is the second shipment of these animals to New Mexico, the others having gone forward a year ago.

In common with the buffalo and the antelope, the Rocky Mountain sheep once faced possible extermination in Canada, but to-day bands of them are a common sight in the mountain parks, where they are hunted only with a camera. This splendid mountaineer, with his massive curling horns is one of the most coveted of big game prizes, and the future of the species is ensured by the sanctuary conditions in the national parks, which serve as reservoirs for the areas in which big game hunting is permitted.

Knew About Sailors

The boy had shown such a degree of ignorance and mental obtuseness that the teacher was disheartened, and she finally asked sarcastically: "Do you know whether George Washington was a soldier or a sailor?"

"He was a soldier," answered the urchin, promptly.

"How do you know that," she persisted.

"'Cause I saw a picture of him crossing the Delaware, an' any sailor'd know enough not to stand up in the boat."

Shell Plants

Manufacture Of Explosives To Be Greatly Increased

Total production of explosives in Canada this year should approach in quantity the entire output during the first Great War, said Hon. C. D. Howe, minister of munitions and supply.

Mr. Howe outlined the progress of Canada's $100,000,000 chemical and explosives program on which some 15,000 men are engaged on construction work alone. Several thousands more are engaged on production.

The chemicals and explosives program calls for an output more than double that of any year of the first Great War.

One shell-filling plant and two chemical plants started operations in the last three months. Two other major chemical plants and one major explosives plant should enter production shortly. A Canadian plant will soon be leading aerial bombs. Some of the new plants will manufacture chemicals never before made in Canada.

To have the advantages of decentralization and at the same time provide "business and professional leaders essential to the success of the program with an administrative mechanism with which they are fully familiar, the entire chemicals and explosives plan has been placed in the hands of the Allied War Supplies Corporation, a company wholly owned by the crown."

Mr. Howe said this company would have under its supervision the development and co-ordination of 19 explosives, chemical, shell-filling and kindred projects. Although the projects are administered by private industry, the ownership is vested in the crown.

Greater portion of the major projects will be in operation by July or August. Construction work now in progress calls for a monthly payroll of about $2,000,000.

History Of Silk

Was Used In China Before The Dawn Of History

It is said that the kings and nobles of China wore silken garments away back before our records of history, but Europe first knew this material when the venturesome explorers of Venice and Portugal brought these luxury fabrics to decorate their lady laves in the thirteenth century.

Silk always had its lure. A story is told that even the Greek philosopher, Aristotle, felt to Alexander the Great, fell victim to the wiles of a little maid in waiting who flourished about the court in a flimsy silken skirt.

Queen Elizabeth, in the year 1561, is reputed to have worn the first pair of silk stockings, crude and coarse affairs compared to the diaphanous leg-gear worn by the shop girl of to-day. Before this time, stockings were made of velvet and other expensive cloth, for the short-trousered men, but the ladies, with their long gowns, paid little attention to their hose.

It was a minister of the church, the Rev. William Lee of an English August, who in 1589 invented the first knitting machine to make stockings, and all because he grew so tired of seeing his wife monotonously knitting the family stockings by hand. Dear man! had he but known anyone else believed that that knitting machines could knit anything so fine as silk thread.

British Subjects Released

Some 1,000 British subjects have been released from a camp in unoccupied France where they were interned at the time of the French collapse, the British Broadcasting Corporation reported. About 600 more are expected to be released shortly, the BBC said. They released were women with children under 16, women over 60, men over 65 and women whose husbands are over 65, the BBC added.

Ready For Emergency

Says Greatest Hour Of Britain's History Is Approaching

The greatest hour of Britain's history is approaching "and we shall arise to it," A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, told a war weapons meeting.

"What we have accomplished has given us our chance to win," Mr. Alexander said. "Now we have to take that chance to go on to victory."

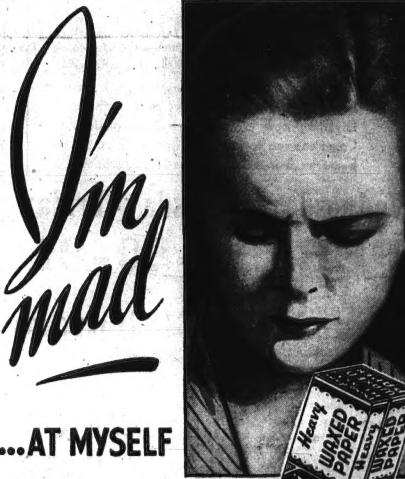

The heaviest tasks, sternest ordeals and severest testing time still lie ahead, he warned, adding: "Our endurance and courage will have to rise to yet greater heights."

"Inevitably the full weight of the mightiest military machine the world has ever known will be hurled against us," he said and "we will have to meet the onslaught."

"Having realized the nature of the crisis that lies ahead, there is no need to quail. The greatest and grandest hour of our history is approaching and we shall arise to it."

Every man has some present blessing, but nearly all men dwell on some past blunder, and with this mud in their minds, they look over into the future for more trouble.

CANADIAN NAVAL UNITS IN BRITAIN TO BE INCREASED

London.—The number of Canadian naval units operating in British waters may be quadrupled in the spring, Commander L. W. Murray, newly-appointed commandant of Royal Canadian naval ships and establishment in the United Kingdom, announced.

These additions to the flotilla of Canadian destroyers which British naval officers say "have been turning in a first-class job" in this zone will for the most part be converted—known as anti-submarine tenders—and minisweepers.

Upwards of 50 of these little "naval workhorses" will be turned out by Canada's shipyards by the time the St. Lawrence is clear of ice and Commander Murray said "about half of them may be expected to cross the Atlantic to operate on this side."

As well as the R.C.N. ships patrolling British waters and escorting supply and other convoys through submarine-infested waters which now know the additional danger of German bombers, the new headquarters will be responsible for 420 Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve officers.

"Almost every ship of the Royal Navy has at least one of these Canadians aboard," Commander Murray said. "Unfortunately one of them was lost in the Ajax action in the Mediterranean recently."

Promotion of these officers comes under the R.C.N. They are paid in Canada.

Another branch of the new establishment will be in charge of where young Canadian sea warriors are now taking anti-submarine, anti-aircraft gunnery and other courses.

T.C.A. Crash

Twelve Persons Lose Lives In Accident At Armstrong, Ont.

Armstrong, Ont.—Twelve persons died in the dark of early morning when a Trans-Canada Airlines passenger plane plunged to earth near this small town in northwestern Ontario, 301 miles east of Winnipeg.

The death list of the worst accident in Canada's aviation history contained the names of three crew members and nine passengers.

Passengers—Mrs. R. D. Carter, Vancouver; E. Malone, Toronto; W. F. Gaaston, Winnipeg; H. Moss, Toronto; Prof. Robert McQueen, Ottawa; Lt. Cmdr. H. H. Harlowe, Winnipeg; E. C. Manning, Victoria; J. P. Frost, Winnipeg; I. E. Davidson, Vancouver.

Crew—Captain W. E. Twiss, Winnipeg, formerly of Vancouver; First Officer C. E. Lloyd, Winnipeg, formerly of Ottawa; Miss M. G. Mayne, stewardess, Winnipeg.

Chinese Defence

Ready For New Japanese Drive Near Hong Kong

Hong Kong.—Chinese despatches said crack units of China's 35th army, which distinguished itself against the Japanese in Kwangsi province, are being rushed to the defence of Waikang, the new Japanese drive northeast of Hong Kong.

The Japanese landed east of Mira bay and began a thrust toward Waikang, 40 miles distant, to sever Chinese supply lines to the interior.

Japanese correspondents reported vast quantities of salt, gasoline, motor car tires and tobacco were seized when the troops reached Tamshui, 23 miles northeast of Hong Kong.

Asks For Pursuit Ships

New York.—Aviation circles here said Air Chief Marshal Sir Hugh Dowding, former chief of the Royal Air Force fighter squadrons, is appealing to United States manufacturers for 400-mile-an-hour pursuit ships carrying 20-millimetre cannon capable of blasting heavy German airplane armor.

Casualties At Malta

Valletta, Malta.—Civilian deaths from air raids on this fortified British island during January totalled 63, it was announced. Seriously injured numbered 19. Aggregate casualties since Italian entry into the war were 132 killed and 218 seriously injured, 26 of them fatally.

The Italians are finding out—just like our farmers found out years ago—that there's such a thing as having more land than you can look after easily.

Response Was Gratifying

Many Took Advantage Of Instalment Plan For Income Tax

Ottawa.—More than 80,000 Canadians took advantage of the instalment plan system of paying their 1940 income tax and more than 20,000 others paid their tax in full in January, Revenue Minister Colin Gibson announced at a press conference.

Last year January income tax payments amounted to $4,000,000, while in January, 1941, the collections amounted to $35,000,000, with many bags of mail still unopened, the minister said.

Some 500 taxpayers made their remittances in January, 1940, while this year there were remittances from 100,000 at the latest count. Many have yet to be recorded.

Because the tax on 1940 incomes was made much heavier by the war budget, and because the government wanted the money as quickly as possible for war purposes, arrangements were made that the tax could be paid in eight monthly instalments starting with January, without interest charge on amounts overdue after April 30, when the full tax normally falls due.

Jan. 31 was the deadline for starting instalment payments, but letters containing instalment payments and posted on that day are accepted as being within the time limit.

With a great deal of mail still unopened, the collectors have received $35,000,000 in federal income tax alone from 109,063 taxpayers distributed as follows:

Prince Edward Island, 291; Nova Scotia, 4,000; New Brunswick, 2,000; Quebec, 29,821; Ontario, 52,695; Manitoba, 5,500; Saskatchewan, 3,000; Alberta, 5,266; British Columbia, 6,500.

Aircraft Carrier

British Ship Survived Bombing Attack And Proceeds Underway

Washington.—Frank Knox, secretary of the United States navy, said the British aircraft carrier Illustrious, surviving Axis air attacks which cost her about 50 men killed and 20 bombing planes destroyed in one direct hit by a 1,000-pound bomb, has arrived at Alexandria, Egypt, under her own power from Malta.

Disclosure made during a press conference discussion of the vulnerability of surface craft under bombing, was the first mention of the number killed and of the crossing of the Mediterranean from Malta, where the newest of Britain's carriers first had made port.

An aircraft carrier, Knox noted, was much less heavily armed than a battleship, and in addition he said the Illustrious was lacking protection of its usual complement of fighter planes.

The explosion failed even to affect not only the vessel's power but also her navigability, he said.

Prepared For Emergency

Montreal Landlord Erects A Bomb Shelter

Montreal.—Montreal has its first air raid shelter. The shelter, erected by a west-end landlord, was built between two houses, with the foundation walls of the buildings forming the two side walls. The shelter is topped by a nine-inch roof of reinforced steel and concrete.

The builder, who estimated the shelter cost between $100 and $150, said three others were nearing completion.

As a precaution against incendiary bombs, the landlord placed bags of sand on the roofs of the houses.

Divert Food Supplies

German Agents In Prague Complain Of Large Scale Sabotage

London.—German agricultural agents in Prague are complaining of "large-scale sabotage" of food supplies intended for Germany, the British Broadcasting Corporation reported.

"According to news reaching London," the BBC said, "many thousands of pigs, calves and other cattle have been secretly slaughtered. Last year 15,000 wagon loads of grain and at least 300,000 tons of meat were successfully hidden, and prevented from reaching Germany."

Payment For Beet Growers

Winnipeg.—Cheques totalling more than $50,000 were mailed to sugar beet growers of the Red River valley. The money represents an additional payment of 50 cents a ton on the 1940 Manitoba sugar beet crop. Total payments to beet growers now exceed $350,000 for this year.

Opposing Nazi Regime

Loyal Norwegians Are Making Trouble For Major Quisling

Stockholm.—Reports from Oslo said continued opposition to the Nazi regime of Maj. Vidkun Quisling had manifested itself in street fighting and hundreds of arrests in western Norway.

Many persons were injured at Alesund, north of Bergen, the reports said, when members of Quisling's Hirden (youth organization) fought with loyal Norwegians in the streets. Shots were exchanged.

The secret police and the Hirden broke into several opposition meetings (exactly where, the report did not say) and arrested hundreds of labor and Communist party leaders. Documents were seized as the basis for action against the prisoners who were said to have been taken to concentration camps.

Sabotage continued despite efforts of the German forces and the numerous arrests the reports said.

CANADIAN AIR SQUADRONS TO GO OVERSEAS SOON

Ottawa.—Some of the 25 Canadian squadrons which Prime Minister Mackenzie King announced would be formed from graduate pupils of the British Commonwealth air training plan may be taking part in the defence of Britain within a few months, it was authoritatively learned.

Although the prime minister gave no definite word when the new squadrons would be ready to leave for overseas, the output of pilots and air crews has been accelerated so sharply, it was said, that formation of the initial units may be expected at an early date.

Before any of these squadrons are sent into action, they will be required to undergo a spell of advanced training in the United Kingdom on super-speed fighters and long-range bombers. For operational purposes they would be under Royal Air Force orders, but come under the direct command of Air Commodore L. F. Stevenson, formerly of Regina, chief Royal Canadian Air Force officer overseas.

Decision to create the new Canadian squadrons arose out of inter-governmental discussion and the signing of a supplementary agreement by Defence Minister Ralston during his recent mission to England.

At the outset, the ground crew and serving personnel for the additional squadrons will be provided by the United Kingdom. It is understood, however, that plans call for the despatch overseas of some Canadian ground crews by next September.

On arrival in an active theatre of war Canadian airmen graduating under the Empire plan will receive R.C.A.F. rates of pay and allowances. Officers and men will wear their present style of uniform—the same as that prescribed for R.A.F. personnel—and will be identified as Canadians by "Canada" shoulder patches and distinctive R.C.A.F. badges and buttons.

Considerable speculation has been aroused in the capital over details of the actual expansion of the training plan since its inception last April. In his speech the prime minister said:

"All the projects and schools connected with the plan will be opened up and in operation before September of this year. This represents a clear gain of eight months on the original schedule. Airframe construction this year will be equal in extent to that of last year. Through the recruiting of airmen and air crew, the present strength of 36,000 men will be doubled. The present number of 1,700 airplanes now in use in the training plan will be increased to well over 4,000 before the end of the year."

According to latest available figures the present strength of the R.C.A.F., officers and airmen, is around 38,000. Under the Empire arrangements the total, however, is materially increased by inclusion of pupils from the United Kingdom, Australia, New Zealand and other Empire possessions.

Of this total, it is estimated that approximately 10,000 men are being trained as air crews, with the number of graduates increasing every month.

Authorities believe the annual graduate output will be anywhere from 25,000 to 30,000 once the program has been geared to maximum capacity.

At present, however, only 36 of the contemplated flying schools are in operation with the other 33 scheduled to be opened and in operation by Sept. 1 of this year. The unfinished program includes 10 elementary training schools, seven intermediate training schools, five air observer schools, seven bombing and gunnery, two wireless, one air navigation, and one initial training school.

Dog-Hat Driver From The Prairies Ready To Do His Bit

Winnipeg.—Leland Abbott, dog-hat driver from The Pas, Man., who nudged a team of seven huskies from northern Manitoba to the New York World's Fair in September, 1938, reported at the Royal Canadian Air Force recruiting centre here.

Abbott cancelled a tour of the United States with his dog team to join the R.C.A.F. and sold his huskies.

"I felt I had to come back to do my bit," he said.

In 1939, Abbott volunteered to take his dog team to Finland to haul Red Cross supplies for the Finnish soldiers battling the Russians, but Herbert Hoover, former U.S. president and chairman of the U.S. Finnish relief fund, decided the dog driver could raise more money for the fund by exhibiting his huskies in the United States.

BELGIANS FIGHT TO RECOVER LARGE GOLD SHIPMENT

New York.—A fight by the Belgian government in exile to get possession of about $260,000,000 in gold shipped to France for safekeeping in the Nazi invasion of Belgium was disclosed through an announcement of a court move to tie up French funds in New York as security for the treasure.

Georges Theunis, one-time prime minister of Belgium, now a representative in the United States of the exiled government at London, told the story of the struggle for the missing gold in announcing litigation over French funds frozen in the United States since the fall of France.

Asserting the Belgian government at London had been informed the gold was being shipped by airplane from Africa to France for delivery to the German masters of Belgium, Theunis revealed a legal action to attach Bank of France funds at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York up to $280,000,000 in compensation for the metal sent to France last May.

Recounting the adventures of the much-travelled treasure, Theunis related it had been sent hurriedly to the Bank of France in Paris, then shifted to Bordeaux as the German war machine broke through the French lines.

When France fell and armistice negotiations were under way, the story went, Rene Boel, London representative of the Belgian government, and diplomatic officials arranged to have a British cruiser sent to Bordeaux for the metal. But, continued Theunis' narrative, the Bank of France refused to deliver to the British cruiser, shifting the gold instead to a French vessel for shipment to Dakar.

"It now appears," he said, "that even then the Germans had made plain to the French that, under the armistice, they would want the Bank of France to turn over the Belgian gold which had been entrusted to it."

He suggested "continued German pressure on the French" caused the French to turn the metal to the Germans. The Belgian government at London, he said, was informed part of the gold already had been delivered to Gen. Von Falkenhausen, German commissioner general in Belgium, "who presumes to receipt the gold on behalf of the Bank of Belgium."

Belgian gold reserves were reported to have totalled $700,000,000. What was not sent to France, said Theunis, had found haven in Britain, Canada and the United States. Belgian funds here, along with those of other invaded nations, have been frozen by United States treasury order.

Wall street financial circles heard rumors the French shipped more than $1,000,000,000 in gold to African possessions, mostly around Dakar, when France collapsed.

The London Belgian government is understood to be buying arms in the United States for military forces in the Belgian Congo, where valuable mineral resources have been reinforcing British war supplies.

NEW SYSTEM OF RECRUITING FOR R. CAN. AIR FORCE

Ottawa.—The Royal Canadian Air Force announced the adoption of a new system of recruiting designed to effect ordered assimilation of an increased flow of recruits for training.

Prospective recruits suitable for air crew training and who have already filed applications will be enlisted immediately but will be given leave without pay until the date they are scheduled to enter upon their training course, the air force said in a statement.

"In the meantime, they will wear a special label button, indicating they have been accepted for service with the Royal Canadian Air Force," said the statement.

Under this plan the new recruit will be told when he is formally enlisted, the date upon which he will be called for service, so he can arrange his private affairs without rushing. If, however, vacancies occur in the quota preceding his opportunity may be given him of reporting at an earlier date.

Air Minister Power, speaking in Montreal, forecast this plan when he envisioned an elite corps of airmen drawn from the "flower of Canadian youth" and said he wanted air force recruits "to come forward and be assured they will be told when they are required."

"A recruit must not expect to apply for air training and be accepted for despatch to the first stage of training within a few days," the air force statement warned. "Instead, if he is accepted he will be formally enlisted, given his special button and told the date upon which he will report for service."

"This staggered assimilation of recruits in quotas on scheduled dates will enable the R.C.A.F. to fit available manpower to the available training facilities with the greatest efficiency so that there will be no overflow."

"In planning the opening of schools, it will be possible to estimate in advance the exact number of student aircrews available."

The air force said the training will reach its peak of production in September, 1941, based on April, 1942, as originally estimated.

"This means there will be 83 schools opened by this autumn compared with the 50 now in operation. On a hand-to-mouth basis of recruiting the orderly advance of the required flow of pupils for the 33 schools yet to be opened and for schools already in operation was held impossible and the plan of enlisting for construction at a future date has been adopted to meet the situation, the air force said.

Says Japanese Trade With Australia Is Necessary

Melbourne, Australia.—Japanese Consul-General Akiyama said that Japan is supplying Australia with many items essential to her war activities. These, he said, include materials for services uniforms, electrical equipment and machine tools.

The consul said trade between Japan and Australia is steadily growing in volume and asserted the decision of the N.K. steamship line to put three 10,000-ton liners into the Japanese-Australian service indicated Japanese policy is friendship toward Australia and promotion of peace in the Pacific.

Compulsory Wool Grading

Toronto.—Under a new ruling to become effective April 1, grading of wool in Canada will become compulsory, A. A. McMillan, of the Dominion department of agriculture, Ottawa, told the Ontario Sheep Breeders' Association. He said stations for grading will be located in all wool producing areas. These stations, under the Dominion department, would be housed in all wool warehouses and would be operated at a minimum cost.

Germans Seize Property

Vicky, France.—German authorities in Paris, it was reported, have announced a decree seizing the property of subjects of the British Empire, Egypt, the Sudan and Iraq in the occupied zone. The report said the property, inventory of which was taken with the help of the chamber of commerce, would be confiscated outright if owned by Jews. Otherwise the properties would be placed under German administration pending a final decision.

DAY OF PRAYER IN CHURCHES

Out in the city of Vancouver, the churches are behind the War Savings campaign. February ninth was set aside as a Day of Prayer in that area, with special reference to War Savings thrift. Since Canada is fighting against Hitler to preserve, among other things, the freedom of worship; and since the fight against Hitler demands the financial co-operation of Canadian citizens, other communities in the country may follow the example set by the churches of Vancouver.

BUCKSHEE FUND SENDS MORE THAN A MILLION CIGARETTES OVERSEAS

Well in excess of one million cigarettes have been shipped overseas for free distribution among members of the Canadian Corps, Major-General W. Gibson, chairman of the "Buckshee Fund," has announced.

Since October 10th last year, when the first order for 100,000 was placed, donations from the public of pennies, nickels and dimes have made it possible to send regular shipments to the men. Some 50,000 were sent to Canadian troops in Iceland.

The "Buckshee Fund"—"Buckshee" is slang slang for something for nothing—was originated by a group of prominent Montreal business men and is registered under the War Charities Act. More than 3,650 collection boxes have been placed in post offices, banks, stores and other public places and the amount received is used to purchase the cigarettes as well as pipe tobacco, chocolates and gum.

Members of the Canadian Legion branches throughout the Dominion assist the fund by distributing collection boxes and collecting and depositing the proceeds. The overseas staff of the Canadian Legion War Services have co-operated by taking care of distribution of the cigarettes and other articles to the troops. Special care is taken to assure that men in hospitals enjoy the benefits of the fund.

Indicative of the support being given the fund is the fact that a prominent oil company, which sponsors a broadcast programme over a Hamilton, Ontario, radio station, recently donated a cheque for $192.80 for the purchase of cigarettes. The amount bought 85,000 and these have already been sent abroad to be distributed by the Legion.

NEW FOUR-MONTH TRAINING PERIOD IS SCHEDULED TO BEGIN MIDDLE OF MARCH

Replacing the original 30-day military training scheme under the National Resources Mobilization Act, the first of a new four-month training plan will begin about March 15th, when it is planned to call up between 5,000 and 6,500 men, and the same number each month afterward, according to announcement made this week by the prime minister.

Those to be called, according to present arrangements, are all young men as they reach the age of 21. There will be no exemptions, though postponements may be worked out by the Boards of Review in the different districts.

The four months' period of training will be divided into basic training for two months and advanced training for a further two months. At the end of the first two months those who volunteer and are accepted for the Royal Canadian Navy or the Royal Canadian Air Force will be withdrawn and will go to naval or air-force schools. Those who do not volunteer will be sent to advanced training schools where special training will be given in the particular arm of the service to which they are posted, preference being given as to the branch of the service for which each would like to qualify, as infantry, artillery, signals, army service corps, or ordnance.

At the end of four months, and unless the recruit desires to volunteer and is accepted for some active unit, he will be posted to a reserve unit and will return to civil life, being liable to recall if he should be required for service in Canada or for additional training.

AMERICAN CITIZENS' PASSPORTS CHANGED

All American citizens in Canada possessing valid American passports must submit them to the American consular office nearest their place of residence for cancellation and replacement. Instructions have been issued from Washington that, effective February 10th, the form of passports issued to American citizens for travel abroad will be changed.

There will be no fees connected with replacement of the currently valid passports, although applications are to be made in the usual manner, and will require three identical passport photographs.

The present style passports will remain valid only for 60 days after February 10, or until April 9.

Bathroom No Bee Hive

The newly-married pair were stopping at a hotel. The bride left the groom in their room while she went on a brief shopping expedition. When she returned she passed along the hotel corridor to the door, on which she tapped daintily.

"I'm back, honey; let me in," she murmured with wishful tenderness, but there was no reply; she knocked a little more firmly. "Honey, honey, it's Susie! Let me in."

A cold masculine voice sounded through the door—"Madam, this is not a bee hive; it's a bathroom."

BREEZE FROM THE NORTH FOK

We hear that the fuel we use for agricultural purposes is to be of a different color, as it has been rumored that some of the boys might have been somewhat careless about the barrel from which they filled the family bus, thereby causing our government to be a trifle short in their gas tax estimates.

We're sort of glad that this action has been taken, as under the new system no doubt can exist as to whether "fur-alites" contributing our proper portion of the gas tax. Likewise, we cannot be expected to accept any alibis regarding the fit and proper return to our municipalities of a fair share of the said tax, to be used in much needed repairs on our rural roads.

A few years ago we who till the soil and tend the herds and flocks were alleged to be the main contributing factors toward the deficit in our telephone system, so we took the rural end of the outfit and as circumstances had made us fairly adept in the use of wire for numerous purposes, and necessity being the "mamma" of the invention, we rustled up all the old curvy combs we could find and tied them on our legs to help us in climbing the poles, the government having declined to include any tools in the deal.

We tied into the proposition, and seem to be keeping the budget on a fairly even keel. So now that we ruralites are getting sort of tangled up in taking the blame for antiquated propositions, and finding that the task of bucking adverse conditions on the farm and ranch has been good training, we might be persuaded to apply our talents towards eliminating some of the other troublesome deficits that seem to be beyond the capabilities of our hired help at the capital city.

3600 PRIZE CONTEST FROM ISLES FUN AND PROFIT FOR FAMILY HERALD READERS

Much to the delight of its million and a quarter readers, the Family Herald and Weekly Star has announced a new picture solving contest, offering $600 in cash prizes, with top prize of $200.

From coast to coast of Canada, Family Herald contests are renowned for the good fun they provide. This new contest closely follows the pattern of the song-title picture contest run by the Family Herald in 1939—a contest which broke an all-time record for popularity. A series of comic pictures will be featured along with lists of song titles and the job of contestants will be to find out, from clues in the pictures, what songs the pictures best represent.

The decision to repeat this mirth-provoking prize contest was made in response to numerous letters from homes where the Family Herald contest is a real event every year—where hours of rickling fun are enjoyed solving the puzzles, while every member of the family speculates on what they will do "if Dad wins the first prize."

Believing that it is the function of a farm journal to entertain as well as inform, the Family Herald and Weekly Star brings its readers over 1,000 pages of entertainment in the course of a year. In arranging periodical, amusing and profitable contests, this well-loved farm weekly rounds off a feast of short stories, serials, old songs and other entertaining features without equal anywhere on the continent.

Those anxious to take part in the Family Herald's new $600 picture contest should make sure of reading the contest announcement in the current issue.

THOSE MISTAKES

Of course we newspapermen make mistakes aplenty. The heck of it is that our mistakes cannot be hidden. They come out in the "bold majesty of type" for all the world to read and comment thereon.

There are many incidents in which typographical errors have had their humorous side. One is recorded about two editors who had fought for years. Death overtook one of them and the other sought to make amends for the past by a kindly obituary. Unfortunately the obituary got mixed up with the report of a fire and a portion of it read as follows: "When the beautiful casket was lowered to its last resting place . . . lurid flames shot upward."

A society notice recorded: "Mrs. Gall has been taken to the hospital for an operation. Her gasoline station will be closed indefinitely."

An instance in which a birth notice and an advertisement were mixed up read: "Born, to Mr. and Mrs. McShort, a son, with hot water attachments."

An advertiser pleaded with the public: "We want eggs, and we want 'em bad," and a little later on he came out with: "I am now in a position to hatch your eggs."

A sad story of an accident related, "Dr. Hulton had felt his purse and gave up all hope."

And a well-meaning writer spoke of a respected citizen's "smouldering remains being removed from an old cemetery to a new one."

Ho-hum! Others make mistakes as well as your humble scrivener!

COLOSSAL COTTON ORDER

Orders amounting in all to 20,000,000 yards have been placed with the Lancashire cotton industry by the South African government.

Much of the material is in keen demand at home, but South Africa will be given first call upon it.

The class of cloth wanted is largely for "drills," which are such an important part of military equipment.

"Denims" are also required. These, usually needed for overall cloth, are already being used on a colossal scale for the Civilian Defence Forces in Britain.

South Africa's orders are completed with a large item for "ducks." The last generation remembers these tent cloths as made of pure flax. Nowadays not many tent "ducks" are made of linen, and now that flax is short, the cotton trades are meeting this new demand more cheaply and as serviceably as before.

HILLCREST HAPPENINGS

Ricardo Petrone, of Hillcrest, is taking a youth training course in Calgary.

John Semanick is taking a youth training course at Medicine Hat.

Mike and Sam D'Amico have returned from Medicine Hat, where they have been undergoing youth training. They expect to transfer to Fort William shortly.

Kenneth Thornton has returned home from a month's military training at Red Deer.

The annual meeting of ratepayers of Hillcrest Mines School District will be held at the school house tonight, Friday, February 14th. Three trustees are to be elected.

Joe Luini sustained back injuries while working in the Mohawk mine. The injuries are not serious, it is said.

Charles Yakubik, of the light artillery, has returned home for a short visit.

Six more miners from Hillcrest have been taken on at the Mohawk mine.

Peggy Norton, former Hillcrest resident, is down from Calgary on a visit.

The sum of $65.25 was raised at the Red Cross whist drive held in the Masonic hall on Tuesday evening.

Twenty-five tables were at play, prizes being won by Mrs. Huston, ladies' first; Mrs. Hughes (Bellevue) second; Donald Grant, gents' first; Mrs. H. O. Westrup (playing as gent) second. A dainty luncheon was served and an enjoyable evening brought to a close with the singing of "God Save The King."

COWLEY HAPPENINGS

Mrs. Wesley Matthews and her two young daughters, of Kellogg, Idaho, are paying an extended visit with Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Tustin.

Ronald Morrison and Raymond Cieland have gone to Eastern Canada to take up employment in essential war industry.

Word has been received of the serious illness of W. Dionne at Coleman, where he recently underwent a major operation. We understand his condition is slightly improving.

Norman MacMillan has gone to Calgary, where he will take the youth training course in essential war industry.

Hillie Swart is paying a visit to friends and old acquaintances in Lethbridge for a few weeks.

Mrs. T. Wright recently underwent a major operation in St. Vincent's hospital at Pincher Creek. We understand that she is progressing favourably.

The Ladies' Aid of the United church were entertained by Mrs. Arthur Tustin at her home on Thursday afternoon last. Arrangements were made to hold an afternoon tea and sale of home cooking in the Masonic hall on February 14th, this Saturday.

A dance in aid of the Red Cross will be held in the Cowley hall tonight, Friday.

Bud Craig, Jimmie Gunn, Alma Poulson, Bob Warriner and Larry Porter were recent visitors to Calgary.

A card party, sponsored by the Tennyson branch of the Red Cross, will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wende on Wednesday night next.

A well attended card party, sponsored by the Cowley branch of the Red Cross, was held in the Masonic hall on Friday night. Court whist was played with sixteen tables in operation. Prizes were War Savings Certificates, and were won by Mrs. Frank Webber and Wilfrid Fortier. After cards, a lively dance took place, with music supplied by Orin Burkhardt, Joe Thibart and Alvin Murphy.

A call about 2:30 on Thursday morning brought the fire department to the Royal Cafe, where an outbreak had occurred in the basement, apparently from a defective wire. Smoke and gas fumes prevented the firemen from reaching the source until a supply of gas masks was brought into commission. Considerable damage through smoke and water was reported, partially covered by insurance.

Twenty-five ratepayers, including the mayor and secretary-treasurer, attended the annual meeting of ratepayers in Blainmore recently. But only six attended Coleman's meeting.

Many happy returns to the following whose birthdays are: J. Fraser MacPherson, Ivonne Howe and Lloyd Pinkney, Feb. 9; George Oliver, Feb. 11; Shirley E. Bannan and Linnea Evans, Feb. 15, and Mrs. H. Zak, Feb. 14.

Miss Mona Wilson, a Toronto woman, has been loaned by the government of Prince Edward Island to fulfil a wartime role as assistant national commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross in Newfoundland. In 1935 Miss Wilson was presented with a Jubilee medal by the late King George V, and she was made a Member of the British Empire at the time of the coronation.

From all parts of the province poor attendance at scheduled annual meetings of ratepayers is reported. In some instances no one but possibly the mayor and one or two members of the elected bodies have turned up. Still those who have been placed in office to handle our affairs are shouldering a great responsibility, and in the majority of cases are making an excellent job of it. Ratepayers should at least turn out to show their appreciation of the proffered free services.

Mr. John Shevels, of Bellevue, affiliated at the United church service here on Sunday evening.

Up to time of going to press, local War Savings Certificates campaign collection committees report excellent response.

Aberhart would like it to be generally understood that the vote at Camrose o.k'd his disastrous decision at Ottawa.

We understand that the Michel Creek and all its tributaries, including Corbin and Alexander creeks, have been closed to fishing for the year 1941. Just too bad!

What about paying full interest on Alberta bonds on the installment plan? It would buy many a loaf of bread for former thrifty people who are now suffering, and would like to, but cannot, help the war effort.

The Alberta government could help the war effort right now by considering Alberta bonds at face value so they could be turned in for war certificates. Thousands of persons in Alberta with their savings unfortunately invested in Alberta bonds are eager to help out in the war effort.

Weather forecasts announced over the radio on Wednesday night indicated that we were in for a cold spell of weather with considerable precipitation. But, oh boy, Thursday's sun came out to sweep the mercury away up to 90 at noon, and no sign of colder weather. The heaviest snowfall in this district since December the 20th was recorded on the morning of Wednesday, February 12th, when we actually saw Blainmore's laziest individual (human) crawling over a drift less than two inches in depth.

A dance will be held in the Frank hall on the night of March 7th, part of the proceeds to be donated to the war fund.

It's worth fifteen cents a line to publish a charitable donation of 25 cents in a newspaper. Figuring it out that way, the newspaper is contributing dollar for dollar with the average donor.

Premier Aberhart is quoted as saying in an Edmonton broadcast that he is proud if he has done anything to set aside the Slovaks report of the time being. Lindberg has been in the habit of saying something once in a while also.

A combined appeal for war loans will be launched March 24th by five Canadian organizations which provide auxiliary services for the Canadian armed forces. The organizations are the Knights of Columbus, Salvation Army, Young Men's Christian Association, Young Women's Christian Association and the Canadian Legion.

A real pop talk was given a meeting of the Red Deer Kinsmen's Club last week by H. A. Howard, chairman of the Calgary War Savings campaign. Mayor Dave Elton officiated in a similar capacity at Coleman on Tuesday night of this week. The local committee should not consider themselves ill-advised to endeavor to have either of the speakers mentioned to address a meeting at Blainmore. Blainmore, we feel, is already fairly well covered with pledges, but an inspirational talk might add considerable to our campaign funds, and we are sure that Mayor Dave Elton or Mr. Howard would be only too pleased to respond to an invitation right now while they are ripe on the subject.

Two Channel Wireless

New Equipment Introduced By Canadian Air Force In England

Innovations by a Canadian army co-operation squadron, under Wing Cmdr. R. M. McKay, of Winnipeg, who is at 26 is the youngest man of his rank in the Royal Canadian Air Force, seem likely to revolutionize this branch of the air arm.

Most outstanding development has been a two-channel wireless transmitter for ground-to-air communication.

This apparatus, developed originally in Canada, was introduced to England by the squadron and has so impressed the Royal Air Force it is being adopted for the recently formed British Army Co-operation command.

It broadens the scope of operations of these squadrons and will enable the army to be provided with more complete and rapid information of enemy movements.

The equipment has been used daily by the Canadians in their operations of the past two months, and according to Wing Cmdr. McKay "it has exceeded our wildest dreams." Pilots and airmen handling the equipment say it simplifies work and is more reliable than the old equipment.

Behind the development is the initiative and enthusiasm of the wing commander, formerly the squadron's signals officer, who rose from rank of flight lieutenant to his present position in the last five months. A graduate in electrical engineering from the University of Manitoba, he is considered by his men to be one of the best technicians in the R.C.A.F.

Toughened By Training

Canadian Soldiers Come Through Intensive Exercises In Good Shape

Drew Middleton of the Associated Press says: Thirty thousand men with 30,000 motor vehicles completed 48 hours of intensive manoeuvres in which a segment of Great Britain's new army tested the muscles built up in seven months of training.

Battalions of guards, the Royal Ulster Rifles, and a south Lancashire regiment participated in the exercises, capping the "toughening process" which Viscount Gort, inspector-general of training, instituted last summer.

Most of the troops went "sleepless for 48 hours. They 'fought' on two meals a day; breakfast was snatched in the cold gray dawn and supper was eaten long after dark.

Drivers pushed heavy army vehicles forward on the narrow, slippery roads in black-out columns. The commanding officer emphasized this side of the training. Each man in the country, from the general down, must run seven miles across country once a week.

"We must train our soldiers to great powers of endurance," the general said. "If we fight we must be able to do these things—and nothing is impossible if you know how to do it."

So he worked his troops as they are worked in war.

Helmets men swung by through crowded streets of country villages. Artillery limbers crashed through the underbrush to take up firing positions. They swung memories back to France and days last May "when heaven was falling."

So it was an emotional wallow to meet Ulsters moving up to "pass through" a gap. We remembered the last time, on May 14, 1940, outside Louvain in France.

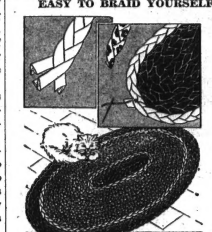

We marched along a wet road in the cold with them. We met a subaltern we knew in Lille and we talked of Charlie, who is in a prison camp, and Liam, who fell at Louvain.

At 5:30 a.m. the Ulster commander decided the time had come to send two platoons across country. The men eased their rifles and tommy-guns.

"Well, so long," some said. "See you in Paris."

HOME SERVICE

BEAUTIFUL COLONIAL RUG
EASY TO BRAID YOURSELF

No Special Equipment Needed

A lovely braided rug—to give an early American charm to your favorite nook.

You can easily make it yourself, using materials on hand. A pretty combination, and the right amount for a cozy 24-by-36-inch size—would be 4 yards dark blue fabric, 3 yards figured 2 yards white.

Now all you have to do is tear your fabric into strips, about 3 inches wide by 1 1/2 yards long, and start braiding them! But first turn in 1/2 inch on each side of each strip, press down, and fold through the middle. Then, as you braid, fold again.

It's a good idea to make your very first strips uneven length, so that joinings won't occur at the same places. When you add new strips, cut the ends diagonally and sew together.

As soon as the braid is all prepared, measure off 12 inches on the blue, turn, and sew with heavy thread. Follow a row of blue by 1 white, 8 figured, 1 white, and 3 blue.

Our 32-page booklet tells in detail how to braid and finish this charming Colonial rug. It has easy instructions for hooked, crocheted, knitted, woven and tufted rugs, includes a standard Navaho style, a French knot, many other novel types.

Send 15c in coins for your copy of "How To Make Your Own Rug" to "Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newsprint Co., 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man.

The following booklets are also available at 15c each:

SELECTED RECIPES

APPLE SAUCE CAKE

1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/2 cup Crown Brand Corn Syrup
2 eggs yolk, unbeaten
2 cups pastry flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
1 cup thick apple sauce (un-sweetened)
Temperature: 350 degrees F.
Time: One hour.

Method: Cream shortening; add sugar and corn syrup. Add eggs yolk; blend well. Sift together flour, soda, salt and spices. Add to creamed mixture alternately with apple sauce. Pour into pan 8" x 8" x 2" which has been lined with waxed paper and oiled with Mazonol. Top with the following meringue:

Meringue
2 egg whites
1/2 cup brown sugar
1/2 cup Crown Brand Corn Syrup
1/2 cup chopped nuts
Method: Beat egg whites until stiff; gradually add sugar and corn syrup. Beat again until mixture peaks. Spread over raw batter; sprinkle with finely chopped nuts. Bake in moderate oven.

Note: If you prefer this cake iced with butter icing, use 1 whole egg in the recipe instead of 2 egg yolks, and omit the meringue.

MOLASSES OF NEW ENGLAND

ALL-BRAN MUFFINS

2 cups Kellogg's All-Bran

Add All-Bran to molasses and milk and allow to soak for 15 minutes. Beat egg whites to first meringue. Sift flour, salt and soda together and combine with all-bran mixture. Fill greased muffin pan two-thirds full and bake in moderate oven (400 degrees F.) about 20 minutes. Yield: One dozen (2 1/2 inches in diameter).

Lancashire Borough Asks Ontario Authorities To Release Money

Authorities of the borough of Colne in Lancashire, England, are asking the Ontario legislature to relax the Ontario law which was made by Peter Birtwhistle, who died in London, Ont., 13 years ago, so the money he left for the poor of his native village may be turned over immediately.

Under Birtwhistle's will, the original estate of $600,000, now grown to $700,000, would not be paid over until 1948. Colne authorities are asking for the money to aid villagers afflicted by the war. The will specified that the money was to be used by the borough for assisting the poor without limitation.

Hydro In North

The First Hydro-Electric Power In The Northwest Territories

Hydro-electric power has been turned on at Yellowknife, reports the Department of Mines and Resources. The Con, Negus, and Rycon gold mines are receiving electrical energy from the first hydro-electric plant in the Northwest Territories, located at Prosperous Lake about 13 miles north of Yellowknife. Provision is also being made to supply the domestic requirements of the settlement. In addition Ptarmigan Mines Limited, Giant Yellowknife Gold Mines Limited and the Thompson-Lundmark Gold Mines Limited will be supplied with power in the near future.

Previously power for mining operations in this northern gold field was supplied by diesel units, the oil being shipped to Yellowknife from wells below Fort Norman, N.W.T. or from Alberta. The change to hydro will provide cheaper power, and thus enable the profitable working of lower-grade ore bodies.

Work on the project got under way in April, 1940, after one hundred tons of equipment and supplies had been shipped to Yellowknife by tractor over the Grimshaw-Great Slave Lake winter road and then by truck to the power site. The plant is estimated to have cost about $600,000, and the work included the construction of a rock-filled timber dam 760 feet long and 16 feet high, a rock tunnel 800 feet long, a wooden penstock with a 90-foot support, a frame powerhouse and substation, and a 33,000-volt steel tower transmission line for the delivery of the 4,200 horse-power of the initial development.

STYLE WITH STRIKING CONTRAST

By Anne Adams

Places to go? You'll have a "stand-out-from-the-crowd" air at gala occasions—in this bewitching new Anne Adams frock. Pattern 4681. Its simplicity spurs good taste and distinction; its novelty details spell youth. Just see the unusually attractive lines of this frock. The bodice panels are very soft and gathered below the curved yokes; the high waist seam is playfully scalloped. The slim princess lines of the back are easy to stitch up. Let a belt buckle in back or tie in front, or have a sash of gay ribbon. Both short and tucked three-quarter sleeves are included in this graceful style. Aren't the panels attractive made in flowered print, with the rest of the frock in solid color?

Pattern 4681 is available in misses' and women's sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32. Size 20 takes 3 yards 39 inch fabric and 1 yard contrast.

Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly Name, Address and Style Number, and send orders to the Anne Adams Pattern Dept., Winnipeg Newsprint Co., 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

FEBRUARY 16

JESUS TEACHES FORGIVENESS AND GRATITUDE

Golden Text: Be ye kind one to another, tenderhearted, forgiving each other, even as God also in Christ forgave you. Ephesians 4:32. Lesson: Luke 17. Devotional reading: Psalm 100.

Explanations and Comments

The Sin of Cursing Others to Sin, Luke 17:1, 2. It is inevitable that hindrances should come (Moffatt's translation); but woe unto him through whom they come! The Greek word translated "occasions of stumbling," is the name of the upright stick in a trap on which the bait is fastened, while, when touched by an animal, causes the trap to close over it. Better were it that he should put to death, than that he should cause one of these little ones to stumble. By "these little ones" Jesus refers affectionately to those disciples who were weak enough to be easily led astray.

The Duty of Forgiving Others Who Sin Against Us, Luke 17:3, 4. Take heed to yourselves: if thy brother sin, rebuke him; and if he repent, forgive him. We know from other teachings of Jesus that a free and full forgiveness for any wrong done to us is absolutely required of every follower of his. Any feeling of hatred or desire for vengeance should be put to rest. Jesus has mercy on the Christian's heart, whether or not the offender is repentant.

A Lesson in Gratitude, Luke 17:11-18. As Jesus and his disciples were on their way to Jerusalem, traversing the borders of the two districts of Galilee and Samaria, they were met by ten lepers. The lepers stood afar off as was prescribed by law (Lev. 13:45; Num. 5:2) to avoid infecting others by their loathsome disease, and cried loudly, "Jesus, have mercy on us." Jesus bade them go and show themselves to the priests. If cured, they would have to do this in order to get their "bill of health," the priest's declaration that they were free from leprosy and might mingle with other people. Obedience to this command required great faith, yet all ten obeyed and the way found their disease vanished. True it was for them that, as Dr. Jowett somewhere says, "faith begins as an experiment and ends as an experience."

Some people have been confused by the fighting between Siamese and French, at the frontiers of Indo-China. In fact, it is merely a phase of the present world war.

The Siamese are allied with Japan. If the Japanese and the Siamese together could gain possession of French Indo-China, or of its strategic routes and frontiers, they could attack upon the great British base at Singapore would become possible, along the Malay Peninsula. The Japanese, using the Siamese as a cat's paw, are manoeuvring for position. They will not strike yet against Britain itself. They can bide their time.—Chicago Daily News.

England's Royal Mint reports that 500,000,000 pennies have disappeared in the last 80 years.

COLD ENDURANCE

The terms "warm blooded," and "cold blooded" are popular terms which do not mean what they say. Warm blooded animals are those whose body temperature is maintained at the same level regardless of outside temperatures. A better name for them would be "constant temperature animals."

Cold blooded animals are those whose temperatures vary with the environment. They are able to sustain life by adapting themselves to the low temperature through a variation of body temperature to correspond with the outside temperature. In cold weather they will be sluggish and in some cases appear to be dead.

Among human beings, differences in the ability to withstand the cold are determined partly by the amount of fat immediately under the skin. Because they are better equipped in this respect, women withstand cold better than men. In general, fat persons feel the cold less than lean persons. The rate of body chemistry, which is governed by the thyroid gland, is another factor in sensibility to cold. Persons with deficient or inadequate secretion from the thyroid, although they may be fat, are liable to feel the cold severely, while persons with over active thyroid may be thin, but not highly susceptible to cold.

One sometimes wonders why thinly clad women are able to stand cold so well. Use has something to do with this faculty. They are like Indians: "all face." The same circumstances appears in bare-legged children; they are used to the condition, but the condition may be carried too far. If chills result, the indication is to add to the clothing. Dampness of weather calls for more clothing. In damp weather the cold seems more penetrating, while frosty air is dry.

CHAPTER VI.

It was a sleepless night for Nancy. She curled up miserably in the centre of the lumpy bed, the pale green, grubby frock lying in a crumpled heap on the floor.

One thing kept returning to her mind, over and over again. One name kept rising in her thoughts, time after time. Tom Cantwell.

He had told Hugo Blake that she was working in the office under an assumed name. He had told Hugo Blake that story about her father's failure, making it appear that John Bristow had been directly to blame. But that wasn't all.

Tom had walked down the corridor with her that day at the factory, trying to look as though he were just getting acquainted with a new girl in the office. He had told her, in that low, insistent whisper, "Whatever Hugo Blake wants you to do, you do it. Keep it a dead secret at the office."

For that matter, what was Tom doing, working as a machinist in the Bristow plant?

Which ever way her mind turned, she could come to only one answer: Tom was in this thing too. He was working with Hugo Blake in this terrible work that she was just beginning to understand.

Her first plan, after Blake had explained that he wanted her to obtain certain information for him from the office, had been to go to John Bristow in the morning and tell the whole story. Then, as Blake had gone on with his explanation, it had occurred to her that she had not one shred of proof.

She realized at last that she must pretend to co-operate with Hugo Blake, and must at least seem to do whatever he demanded. Only in that way could she obtain some proof that would render him harmless in the future, and only in that way was there a chance of learning the identity of his fellow conspirators. Already she knew the identity of one of them—Tom Cantwell!

Near dawn she dropped off into a restless sleep, waking to find the sunlight pouring through the dingy window.

She rose, bathed and dressed, her mind holding a new resolve. At least she didn't have to face the problem alone. There was still one person she could ask for advice, even for help. Her brother, Pat.

A telephone call revealed that Pat. There was at the airport due for a flying lesson. He would be back late in the afternoon.

She pulled on a little soft felt hat, took her purse and gloves, and went out. Waiting till late afternoon would be unbearable.

The airport was buzzing with activity. A training ship circled in the blue overhead; Nancy recognized Iris Bristow's roadster among the cars in the parking lot, and wondered if that might be Iris, halfway to the clouds. For a moment she paused, admiring the graceful movements of the tiny plane. If only she could be up there instead! Then she remembered her errand.

A mechanic told her that Pat was in the operating building, and she headed toward it, picking her way carefully through the dust. By the door she paused for a moment's thought.

What was she going to tell Pat when she found him? How was she going to make it clear to him? For all she knew, he might laugh at her, tell her it was all nonsense. Well, she'd have to find a way to make him believe her, that was all.

As she stood there deciding what to say, two men came out of the operations office; talking in low tones. One of them, tall, thin and red-haired was Pat. She started forward joyously, then checked herself suddenly. The other man was Tom Cantwell.

The open door of the building hid them from their view and they stood talking for a moment, oblivious of her presence, while fragments of their conversation drifted to her stunned ears.

"I know I can't back out now," Pat was saying in a half whisper. "But it's risky. If—The rest was lost in the roar of a plane overhead. When it had passed, Tom was saying—certainly worth the risk. Right now there's a big drive to bring more student pilots out. If there should suddenly be a lot of unexplained accidents to student pilots, it would put a big crimp in enlistments."

Nancy felt her flesh had frozen to her bones. Her impulse was to rush out and confront them. Her second thought held her back to listen. "—don't like the kid getting mixed up in this," Pat said.

"Don't worry about her. She doesn't know what she's doing."

Nancy knew they were talking about her.

"She mustn't know," Pat said, almost harshly.

"But I do know," she told herself. There could be no confiding in Pat now, either. Somehow she steadied herself, patted her hair into place and walked out from behind the hangar door, smiling as though she hadn't a care in the world.

"Hello Pat! Surprised?"

The two men spun around.

"Why, kid! Where did you spring from?" Pat's snub-nosed, freckled face broke into a welcoming grin.

"I thought I'd run out and remind you you still had a sister," she added. "Hello, Tom," lightly, smiling at him brightly.

Pat threw an arm about her shoulders. "I hadn't forgotten. Fact is, I've been worrying about you a lot. How goes the life of a working girl?"

"It goes swell. I wouldn't leave it for the world."

Tom grinned down at her. "Pat shouldn't worry about you, with me on the ground to look after you."

He turned to Pat. "I see the kid every day, looking efficient as all get-out."

"You working people!" Pat said, half ruefully. His eyes kept seeking the sky. "Iris seems to be doing all right up there."

"Then that is Iris!" Nancy exclaimed impulsively. "I guessed it." She laughed. "Telepathy, maybe."

They watched in silence while the training ship circled the field, and finally came in for a perfect landing. The girl who climbed out of the plane looked exceedingly chic in her flying clothes; when she slipped off her leather helmet a mass of pale-gold hair gleamed in the sun.

She greeted them joyously, hugging Nancy and declaring that she had been ages since she had seen her, but too filled with enthusiasm over the flying lesson she had just taken to talk of anything she added. "How am I doing, Pat?" She looked up at him winsomely.

"All right."

Nancy knew that when Pat said "All right" in that tone of voice, it was the highest praise he could give. She was going to be late for dinner, Iris Bristow declared, and after extracting a promise from Nancy to telephone soon, she went off to her car, waving over her shoulder as she went. Again Nancy felt a pang of envy.

She had always admired, yes, envied Iris Bristow's insouciance, her gayety, her daredevil bravery. Now for a moment she felt she would give anything to share the blonde girl's carefree, joyous, thoughtless life. But all that was behind her now.

"Funny how you can be around a girl most of your life and hardly notice her, and then all of a sudden—bang!" It was Pat who spoke, a new, serious note in his usually gay voice.

"Meaning Iris?" Tom said quietly.

Pat nodded. "Maybe it's been happening all along and I never knew it till now—when it's too late."

"Too late, Pat?" Nancy asked.

"There was bitterness in his voice. 'Maybe if things had gone along the way we always expected, I'd be engaged to Iris right this minute. But what have I got to offer Iris Bristow now? I'll probably never earn enough to keep her in gloves.' He drew a long breath that was almost a sigh. 'There isn't a thing in the world I wouldn't do for money.'"

"Pat?" It was Tom who spoke, his voice low.

"I know. That's a rotten thing to say. But maybe I mean it."

"You have a future, Pat," Tom seemed to be conveying some message to the red-haired young man that Nancy wasn't supposed to hear. "Oh, sure." A grin broke over Pat's face. "Well, going up now. So long, Tom. See you later."

He kissed Nancy's cheek. "Take care of yourself, sis." He waved at her as he ran toward the field.

Nancy stared after him. He seemed so young, so brave, so debonair. Was it need of money, or just a craving for adventure that led him into this thing? She felt Tom's hand on her arm and turned to look up at his tanned, honest, serious face.

"Let me drive you home, Nancy?" he grinned. "Maybe we can—pretend everything is just like it used to be."

She started to refuse, then checked herself. If she could bring herself to spy on Hugo Blake, by pretending friendliness, she could do the same with Tom. She returned his smile.

"Sure. I haven't seen you for so long, really."

He helped her into his car and started down the road leading away from the airport. "Same old bus. Maybe I can afford a new one soon."

Nancy thought suddenly of how the money for it was being earned, and again felt her flesh turn cold.

"It's still a good old bus," she said lightly. "We've gone a lot of places in it together." The breath caught for a moment in her throat.

"Still got the key to it I gave you last summer?"

She nodded silently. Tom had made something very special of giving her the key to his car.

"Sorry I haven't seen you much lately, Nancy. I've been busy, you know."

"Sure. I understand." She glanced up at him from the corner of her eye. He had always seemed so solid, so steady. One of the sure things in a changing world. He looked the same now, his brown hair combed by the wind, his keen grey eyes fixed on the road.

"Stop for a hot dog somewhere, Nancy?" he glanced down at her. "Since we're turning the clock back for the afternoon."

She nodded. Somehow she managed to make her voice gay. "We'll pretend everything is like it always used to be. It is like it always used to be."

SHE HAD A GORGEOUS TEMPER!

"Lovely girl... she loved a cup of coffee or tea. Every meal and in between. Of course it wasn't long 'till she started to show the familiar signs of caffeine-nervous. Nervousness, headaches and sleeplessness finally whipped her from irritability into tantrums of temper."

"Then some medicler told her about the effects of caffeine on the system. Advised her to drink Postum instead of coffee and tea. Curious!—She took the advice. And now, a month later, she feels so much better she vows she'll never get in my clutches again!"

Many people can safely drink coffee and tea. Many others—and all children—should never drink them. If you are one of those, try the 36-day Postum test. Drink Postum instead of coffee and tea for one month and see how much better you'll feel. You'll really be surprised what a difference it makes. Get a tin today and start your test right away. Postum is delicious, economical, easy to prepare and contains no caffeine.

WHEN THEY FIND OUT ABOUT POSTUM, I FIND OUT I'M FIRED!

But in her heart she knew it was not. (To Be Continued)

Not Always Dependable

Old Copy-Book Stationers Have Often Been Proved Wrong

Once in a while the copy-book maxims get a bad pushing around. A penny saved is a penny earned, we are told, and then some bloke who never saved a penny in his life wins the sweepstakes. Waste not, want not, is drilled into us, and then the bank goes bust.

Plough deep while sluggards sleep, is a grim warning against over-indulgence in slumber—yet now comes an incident to shake faith even in that. A Cleveland chemist, deep in an experiment to devise a process for making red copper oxide to protect ships' bottoms from fouling, started a mixture to cooking, and then set his alarm clock for 2 a.m. to shut off the furnace. Alas, in the manner all too familiar, he shut off the clock and rolled over for another forty winks. Hours later he arrived at the plant to find the problem solved. The extra cooking had achieved the desired result.

These little faith-shaking incidents are exceptions to all the time-dried rules. Otherwise they'd be the rules, wouldn't they?—Willis Thornton.

Nazis Do Not Like Jokes Made At Their Expense

Filippant remarks about Germany's plans for invasion bring heavy penalties in the Netherlands, according to the Hague correspondent of Vrij Nederland, free Dutch newspaper published in London.

A Dutch farmer had a long wait in a Hague store. He was next in line when two German soldiers came in. With a gesture and a wink to the store-keeper, he waved the Nazis forward and said, "You had better attend to these gentlemen first, they are in a hurry for they are going to England."

Two minutes later the farmer was arrested by the military and sentenced to 18 months in prison for "causing disrespect to the German army."

Changed Name Of Street

Passing through Bardia en route to Tobruk correspondents noted that the name of the main street, Via Mussolini, had been changed to Via Ned Kelly, by an Australian trooper. Ned Kelly was a famous Australian bush bandit. Along came a British officer who changed the name of the street to Via Churchill.

Has Become A Symbol

Normal Life Of London Is Voiced Through Big Ben

It is good news that Big Ben has been restored to the BBC program as forerunner of the nine o'clock news bulletin. Considerations of security may have led to the exclusion of his own resonant time signal, but the return of that massive stroke will be welcomed throughout the English-speaking world and perhaps in many quarters beyond it. That stroke now speaks for something more than the passage of time. If London is the nightly centre for the attack on the heart of the British Commonwealth, the deep tones of this famous chime will now bear a repeated message of courage and resistance. London's surface has been hideously and wantonly scarred, but its spirit is unscathed. Some people are calling for more military bands, and one M.P. apparently considers that the sirens should be trained to sound a bugle call as a warning of the "alert." But the best of all evidence of an ability to "carry on" lies in the undisturbed characteristics of normal life. The sound of Big Ben belongs to the peace of the past, and it will be heard again in the peace of the future. Let it be heard now as a steadfast link through the hours of ordeal by battle.—Manchester Guardian.

German Scientists Turn Hop Plant Vines Into Strong Textiles

German scientists, after years of experimental work, have devised a process for turning hop plant vines into textiles, the U.S. agriculture department said at Washington. It was said the hop fibres, after being processed, were found to be three times as strong as cotton, more resistant than hemp and free from wrinkling.

Presents Difficulties

Purchasing Of Food For Britain Is Not Easy Task

The talk allotted to the British Ministry of Food as the nation's shopkeeper with an annual "household" budget of £600,000,000 (£2,670,000,000) is not an easy one.

To keep the country's shelves stocked and the stores at the back of the shop filled, the Ministry earmarks two-thirds of this enormous trading account for imports, of which the Ministry has been the sole purchaser since private importation was ended by government order last June.

A ministry spokesman explained that the biggest difficulty is in trying to find the balance between driving a hard bargain for the British consumer and finding a reasonable price for the foreign grower.

"It has been suggested that we have at times lost the opportunity of making valuable purchases through trying to drive too hard a bargain. Particular attention has been called to the case of the Spanish bitter orange crop," says a ministry spokesman.

"A jump in the cost of raw materials, such as oranges for marmalade, does not end there. At every stage the increase becomes greater. We must not start on a vicious spiral movement."

"In the long run it is far better that consumers in this country should go without foodstuffs such as lemons and onions, which are not essentials, than that the ministry of food should get the reputation throughout the world of being prepared to pay whatever price the producer or exporter demands."

"I put old newspapers inside the overcoat of my uniform. That way I keep warm."

Are Well Looked After

English cats don't lack meat even in the bombardment; there is plenty of horsemeat there, and cats love this. The English are friendly to cats, and even in the poorest districts they are not neglected. English breeders of pedigreed cats report that they are doing well and have held some successful shows. As for Nazi bombs, the cats don't even notice them.
